

Legal Framework

1. Regarding the rights of the child: Guarantee the right to mental and emotional health without the child feeling obligated or pressured by us
2. The Personal Data Protection Law must be complied with, ensuring the confidentiality and protection of the information of the preteens who are giving us the information.
3. Emotional support: Offer help and emotional support to adolescents in situations of stress or conflict.
5. Collaborate with certified mental health professionals to supervise and support project activities.
6. Be prepared to identify and report any case of abuse or mistreatment, in accordance with local child protection laws.

How this affects us, this affects us since at the moment we do not have knowledge of who to give information about cases of child abuse or abuse with minors, seek help from mental health professionals so that they can advise us in a well-designed way. provide the best care, comply with the personal data protection law when a boy or girl gives us the confidence to tell us everything they are going through.